It is stated that Senator Welch considers this matter a local Williamantic issue in which he has no right to take part. The competitors of Judge Shes think he ought to be contented with his present office as judge of probate. It is also stated that Representative Bugber, the present prosecuting attorney and a democrat, would be likely to be reappointed as his prosecutor of the court if either Judges Arnold or Shea should win the coveted prize. If Attorney Harvey should become the police judge he would have to appoint a republican prosecuting attorney under the provisions of the charter governing the political complexion of the court's officers.

Banquet of Baptist Bible Class.

The normal Bible class of the Baptist church enjoyed its annual banquet Tuesday evening. The speaker, W. B. Wilson of Providence, was unable to be present. The president of the class, J. G. Robinson, referred to the delightful social spirit that had characterized the meetings of the class, and introduced the pastor, Rev. W. F. Rowley as the speaker of the evening. His facetious remarks were an excellent after-dinner course of good cheer and they were followed by references to the blessings that may be found in the disapoinments of life. He spoke of the high ideals that were the inspiration of the normal class. Mrs. Flagg and Mrs. Tatem contributed a vocal duet, and an instrumental trio rendered several selections. Few in Jewett City or Norwich are aware that in 1827 a franchise was granted by the legislature to establish and incorporate the Quinebaug Canal bank in Norwich. An extract from Private Acts. Vol. 1, owned by L. D. Howe, reads that an act to incorporate the Quinebaug Canal bank was passed in the May session, A. D. 1827. The object of establishing this bank was to raise funds to defray the expense of building a canal up the Quinebaug from Norwich to the Massachusetts line. Extracts from Miss Ellen B. Larned's History of Windham county reads: We highly approve of the contemplated canal on the Quinebaug river connecting our manufacturing and agricultural interests, opening a ready market for our surplus production and calling for our energies and enterprise to be ready to take advantage of the expected opening. It is believed by various local busi-ness men that the protest of the Businese Men's association against the daily blocking of the sidewalk at the trolley freight station on lower Main south of the one used by the steam road, as was talked of some months How They Voted.

Jewett City and Norwich were much interested. Captain David Butts, Solomon Payne and Elisha Chaffee of Canterbury and Ebenezer and John Grover of Pomfret were among the earnest petitioners with other towns. Captain Butts was then a prominent man in Canterbury and the bridge which spans the Quinebaug three miles north of the borough bears his name. One-Half the Passbooks In. One-Half the Passbocks In.

Up to closing time on Wednesday, about one-half of the total of 2,600 passbooks of the depositors of the Windham County Savings bank had been presented for verification, this process having commenced about ten days ago. It is probable that nearly all of the books will have been presented for cheeking by the end of this month, the process being one that the bank officials are anxious to have over bank officials are anxious to have over promptly, that there may be no fur-ther delay in adjusting the accounts No Evening Grosbeaks Seen Here.

Three Burglaries at North Grosvenor dale-Station at Wilsonville Entered-Theory That Burglars Came From Webster in a Sleigh-Little

Four burglaries were reported from the town of Thompson Wednesday morning, none of them resulting in great losses. Three of the breaks oc-curred at North Grosvenordale, where the two stores of Representative Chas. Johnson, a store run by Clarence Seaver and the railroad station were entered. The station at Wilsonville, just north of North Grosvenordale, was also broken into.

As far as could be learned during Wednesday the total of the fosses will not be much in excess of $100 and the most of this falls on Representative Johnson. The burglars got in their work in the small hours of the orning. No one saw enough of them get a line on who they were, but was learned that they came in a sleigh, presumably from the direction of Webster.

The two Johnson stores, one dry goods, the other grocery, are in the same building, but have separate entrances. In each case the glass was broken out of the doors a band thrust broken out of the doors a hand thrust in and the spring luck released. From in and the spring lock released. From the dry goods store a quantity of jew-elry and wearing materials were taken and many goods disturbed. Just what the exact loss is has not been ascertained Wednesday. At Seaver's confectionery store candy was taken. The loss at the railroad station is believed to be confined to some clears.

The loss at Wilsonville was slight. Reports of the breaks, which at North Grosvenordale were not discovered until about five o'clock in the morning, were made to the local police, but they could get no trace of the burglars, who are believed to have been
